Here are a few of the my recommended must haves if you are going to be working on your own site.

Plug-ins

eStore plugin from tips is a really good shopping cart addition to any website. I use it on a few of my sites along with their other 2 plug-ins for membership an affiliate tracking. The beauty about going that route is that they are all very affordable, compatible and integrate with each other so well. So check them out as they have an extensive write up on each one and their support was very good. This is a no-brainier replacement for the ever popular WooCommerce which is expensive and the plugins that you need to run this one like a shopping cart are extra, whereas eStore from tip come ready to get you selling right put of the box whether it is a physical product, or a digital download.

Web Training recorders

Sidekick Composer is our custom walkthrough development,and training tool. With Composer, you can start to create your own custom interactive Walkthroughs for your web-based products.

Website Maintainance

ManageWP is not a "one day wonder", or one of these "sell & forget" type of offers some people are -unfortunately- used to falling prey to. It is a multi-million dollar company, that has been operating since 2011, with tens of people on payroll, that is here to last. Customers can rest assured that they won't be left alone or having paid for a service that doesn't work anymore. Give it a shot

Hosting Companies

BlueHost.com – Bluehost was founded in 2003 with one goal: to make a better hosting company. Built on open source technology, we've since grown to become one of the world's largest providers of cloud-based online solutions.

Cloudways is the company that I soon hope to be hosting with. I have interacted with some of their CEOs, and they are nice competent people that not only care about the work that they do, but they care about me, the customer. "Cloudways provides its customers the convenience of developing, monitoring and managing spectacular web apps without fussing with the cloud infrastructure."

Security

VaultPress makes it easy to keep an up-to-date backup of your site with both daily and realtime syncing of all your WordPress content. To ensure your site stays safe, VaultPress performs security scans daily and makes it easy to review and fix threats.
